

By Becoming a Bud Wilson Farm CSA Member, you agree to the following terms & conditions:

I understand that my membership fee may be used towards the purchase of any store product or a deposit for advanced purchase.

I understand that neither my membership fee nor deposits for advanced purchases are eligible for a refund. If I wish to cancel my membership for any reasons, I agree to try and recruit a replacement member.

I understand that my purchase indicates agreement with some shared risk. If, due to weather or other event beyond the farm's control, the farm loses more than 15% of its livestock, I agree to receive a proportionally reduced share of my advanced order purchase and that a refund, prorated and proportional to the remainder, will be issued at the farmer's discretion. I agree that if uncontrollable events reduce the total volume of the product I would otherwise receive by up to 50%, that I will share in this loss.

I understand that if the farm is especially abundant, the farm will offer excess product to CSA Members at a price based upon production and costs before offering those products for sale to the public. I know that this offering will be made on specific dates and times, as announced by the farm via email, and that accommodations for specific schedules cannot be guaranteed.

I understand that I must pick up my advanced order purchase from the farm within one month of notification.

I understand that I have one year in which to order either a half or whole hog.

I understand that important communications from the farm will be delivered via email and that opening these emails is my responsibility.
